About Church Society

For more than 180 years, Church Society has been committed to reforming and renewing the Church of England on the basis of its Reformed foundations as expressed in the doctrine of the Articles, the worship of the Prayer Book, and the ministry of the Ordinal. We are active in strategic and influential work campaigning, equipping, and collaborating with others to see the church renewed in biblical faith for generations to come.

Through our website, podcast, regular blog and other social media, our magazine and email newsletter, our regular conferences and other events, Church Society connects and equips ministers and churches across the country for their mutual encouragement and support. Our growing team of Regional Directors are always available to contact for help and advice.

As part of our commitment to raising up a new generation of leaders, we host the annual Junior Anglican Evangelical Conference (JAEC) for those in the early stages of ministry or considering ministry in the Church of England. Church Society also has patronage of around 130 parishes, helping to protect evangelical ministry in the Church of England now and for the future.
